April 21, 1914.

Mr. Charles S. Sloane,
Sec'y, U. S. Geographic Board,
Bureau of the Census.

Dear Sir:

On page 107 of "Correct Orthography of Geographic Names," revised to January, 1911, is entered the decision of the Board in regard to "North Yolla Bolly."

In connection with a recent discussion of the names to appear on a new atlas folio of maps for the Trinity National Forest, California, I have noted the following statement from the Forest Supervisor:

"I shall be glad to have the Board of Geographic Names reconsider its decision with regard to the Yola Bola Mountains, since all local usage and pronunciation of Indians residing near here indicate that it should be Yola Bola."

I wrote the Supervisor for further information on this subject and attach a copy of his letter of April 7 in reply.

I wish to suggest, therefore, that the Board reconsider its decision, with a view to establishing Yola Bola as the official orthography of this name.

Very truly yours,

W. B. Bailey

Enclosure.
